

This paragraph explains the report before the data begins.
It is ordinary prose and must not become a table row.

A second paragraph gives context for the examples below.
Its ragged lines are separate from the aligned table columns.

Category	Example	Considerations
Agents	Prospecting agent	Many inference calls
Chat	Customer support chat	Fast first token
Voice	Real-time translation	End-to-end latency for natural conversation

This paragraph follows the table and is not tabular data.
The page ends with another ordinary prose line.